We understand.

Our customers face short lead times, tight margins and rigorous quality standards. We tailor our business processes to help take the pressure out of meeting those challenges.

The Mill Steel Difference:

- Strategically located production lines support short lead-time deliveries
- IATF 16949, ISO 9001 certified processes
- A2LA ISO 17025 accredited laboratories
- Our Rapid Response Team at rapidresponse@millsteel.com responds to steel inquiries within five minutes
- Metallurgists can be deployed at a moment's notice to save you time and money, or to pinpoint the best product for your requirements
- Vast inventory stock for JIT distribution to minimize carrying costs and optimize cash flow
- We support new programs by sending experts from our fulfillment and metallurgical teams to your location, ensuring a disruption-free startup

Harry Samrick founded Mill Steel in 1959 with little more than a phone, a basement desk, and the idea that superior service and good business ethics could lead to success. The culture Harry established has made Mill Steel one of the largest flat-rolled steel and aluminum distributors in North America. Now Harry's granddaughter, Pam Heglund (CEO & Chairman), alongside fellow partners - Carl Quenneville (SVP & CCO), Joe Poot (SVP Purchasing), Rob Vella (VP Operations), and Marc Rabitoy (CFO) - continue to lead Mill Steel with steadfast dedication to superior quality, delivery, and performance.

Mill Steel has been repeatedly named one of the 101 Best and Brightest Companies to Work For by the Michigan Business & Professional Association (MBPA). In addition, the MBPA has presented Mill Steel with multiple Elite Awards for its outstanding people-first culture. The company is also among the top 15 top privately held enterprises in Michigan and is proud to be nationally certified as an Exceptional Women's Business Enterprise (EWBE) by the Women's Business Enterprise Council. Its growth a result of consistently operating with integrity and putting customers and associates first. People matter at Mill Steel.
